Natural actives

Cosme-Phytami® ginkgo biloba

Extract highly concentrated in active molecules. Ginkgo leaves are used in cosmetic products because of their powerful antioxidant activity. As such, they can be included in care for mature, stressed skin and sun protection products. Ginkgo leaves also have effective anti-ageing benefits, especially by reducing collagen destruction. Ginkgo leaves are recommended to treat blotchy complexions as they activate micro-circulation.

Cosme-Phytami® horse chestnut

Extract highly concentrated in active molecules. Horse chestnut bark activates microcirculation and is useful in products to fight blotchy complexions.

Cosme-Phytami® cornflower

Extract highly concentrated in active molecules. Cornflowers are softening and regenerating, and are ideal in care for irritated and sensitive skin. Thanks to their refreshing and decongesting effects, they are particularly popular in eye contour care.

Amber extract

Amber is the only vegetable precious stone originated 45 million years ago. It is an adequate ingredient to incorporate into skin care and hair care products. Thanks to its antioxidant and conditioning properties.

Cosme-Phytami® red vine

Extract highly concentrated in active molecules. Red grapevine leaves are rich in phenolic compounds and therefore help to promote microcirculation. They are recommended to reduce bags under the eyes, as well as blotchy skin. Oligo-proanthocyanidins (OPC) also give red grapevine leaves powerful antioxidant and anti-ageing properties, which are useful for mature and stressed skin. Red grapevine leaves are toning, astringent, softening, and remineralizing.

Cosme-Phytami® German chamomile

Extract highly concentrated in active molecules. German chamomile flowers offer many benefits. They are moisturizing, softening, restructuring, and regenerating and are therefore particularly suitable for sensitive and delicate skin. Their microcirculation -activating action makes them ideal in eye contour care products. Because they are rich in phenolic compounds, German chamomile flowers are powerful antioxidant and anti-ageing actives.
